Boy's Murder Case Entangled in Fight Over Antidepressants

Through the whole thing, it was like watching your favorite TV show," wrote Christopher, who is now 15. "You know what is going to happen but you can't do anything to stop it."

As trial nears, defense team in Pittman case grows by three

The centerpiece of Pittman's defense will be the argument that an adverse reaction to antidepressants caused the boy's violent behavior. Pittman had been on a five-week regimen of Paxil and Zoloft, both antidepressants classified as selective reuptake inhibitors, or SSRIs.

Psychiatrists Advised FDA 14 Years Ago Not to Act on Suicide and Homicidal Antidepressant Risks -

"The blood of the thousands of children who subsequently died is on their hands," watchdog group says

"The FDA may be accountable for failing to warn the public, but psychiatrists were their advisors with a vested interest in maintaining a multi billion dollar child drugging industry. Now, in the wake of international controversy over the antidepressant drugs' great risk to children's lives, psychiatrists claim they were unaware of the potential harm to children. This is a lie and they should be held accountable,"

PARENTS CALL ON SENATE TO PROHIBIT COERCED PSYCHIATRIC DRUGGING IN SCHOOLS IN WAKE OF FDA ISSUING SUICIDE WARNINGS

With the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) under federal investigation for suppressing evidence that antidepressants can lead to child suicide, alarmed parents across the U.S. are asking members of the U.S. Senate for Federal safeguards against coerced child drugging in schools.

Stupak backs drug label change

Stupak says these antidepressants should be banned until it has been proven that they are safe and work. "The American people have a right to demand the FDA look out for their interest and not the interest of the drug companies," he said.

Scientists find way to make us slaves

However, he and other scientists acknowledge that methods of manipulating human physical and psychological traits are just around the corner, and the technology will emerge first as a lucrative add-on available from IVF clinics.

"There's no doubt we will be able to influence behaviour," said Julian Savulescu, a professor of ethics at Oxford University.

He believes people have "a moral imperative" to genetically enhance their children.

MENTAL HEALTH AND WORLD CITIZENSHIP

newswithviews.com

Under the American socialism planned for our future, government will increasingly control our lives via mental health screening and education, among other means. Only if the American people resist these efforts as soon as possible will we be successful in thwarting the plans of the power elite.

CCHR.org

According to the British Medical Journal, a sweeping U.S. mental health initiative will be unveiled in July which proposes to screen every man, woman and child in America for mental "illness." The initiative was prompted by a March 2004 progress report by The New Freedom Commission on Mental Health. President George W. Bush appointed the commission to advise him on ways of improving the mental health system.

The great majority of antidepressant prescriptions are written by nonpsychiatric physicians.

Right now psychiatrists are advocating their use for a variety of disorders, from depression and anxiety to eating problems, premenstrual tension, phobias, and obsessions and compulsions.

Taking mother for a bite.

In November 1991, 66-year-old Barbara Mortenson attacked her 81-year-old mother, biting her more than 20 times and leaving chunks of flesh strewn on the floor. Barbara had been taking Prozac for the previous two weeks. Kristine Marie Cushing, age 39, had been separated from her husband for several months. In October 1991, she took a .38-caliber pistol and shot and killed both of her children, Elizabeth age 8, and Stephanie Marie, age 4, while they lay sleeping in their beds, then shot herself, inflicting a non-fatal wound. Prosecutors stated that they "couldn't find one iota of information to show that she was

When Pigs Die:

ECT was "discovered" when Ugo Cerletti, psychiatrist, visited a Rome slaughterhouse to see what could be learned from the method that was employed to butcher hogs. In Cerletti's own words, "As soon as the hogs were clamped by the [electric] tongs, they fell unconscious, stiffened, then after a few seconds they were shaken by convulsions.... During this period of unconsciousness (epilepticcoma), the butcher stabbed and bled the animals without difficulty.... "At this point I felt we could venture to experiment on man, and I instructed my assistants to be on the alert for the selection of a suitable subject." Cerletti's first victim was provided by the local police anything

but a very giving, caring and sweet human being."

After a plea of insanity, she was committed to a mental institution. What made her snap?

She had been taking Prozac. Ann Blake Tracy, Ph.D ., author of Prozac: Panacea or Pandora? , has been studying the violent, dark side of SSRI drugs for ten years. She has researched 32 murder/suicides that involved women and their children.

By interviewing their families and studying autopsy reports, news accounts and medical histories, she has determined that in 24 of these

32 cases, the women were taking Prozac or another

SSRI.

These Drugs Alter Normal Brain Function

- a man described by Cerletti as "lucid and well-oriented." After surviving the first blast without losing consciousness, the victim overheard Cerletti discussing a second application with a higher voltage. He begged Cerletti, "Non una seconda! Mortifiere!" ("Not another one! It will kill me!") Ignoring the objections of his assistants, Cerletti increased the voltage and duration and fired again.

With the "successful" electrically induced convulsion of his victim, Ugo Cerletti brought about the application of hog-slaughtering skills to humans, creating one of the most brutal techniques of psychiatry. from <http://www.sntp.net/evolution.htm>

Psychiatric Drug Facts
Peter R. Breggin, M.D.

"Among the most brazen outrages associated with the tragedy at Columbine High School, and previous similar incidents, are the mental health vultures and quacks who descend on the aftermath disguised as grief counselors and "experts" who bemoan the failure of parents and authorities to predict these acts in the face of "clear warning signs."

Particularly galling are the attacks on parents for their "failure" to control their children. Such attacks are another example of blaming the victim. Parental authority and control have been systematically assaulted and destroyed by members of the mental health and social work professions."

"This generation of children is not the product of parental upbringing. This generation, and its destructive behavior, is the direct product of psychology and social work intervention. It is time for these professions to answer questions about their roles in these atrocities." - James Roger Brown -
The New Australian, 10-16 May 1999
